June 18 .- The recent and much need-d improvements in some of our prinspal streets-the addition of several crosswalks at convenient points, the increased accommodations and splendid service given by the popular Fair Haven and Westville Rallroad company, had led us to conclude that we were not only a highly favored people, but were entering upon an era of peace and prosperity unparalleled in our history. But alas, a wareloud has darkened our horizon. The failure of the honorable board of selectmen at their last session to offer a suitable apology to one of our leading citizens for what he terms some very flippant remarks made to him at a previous session has created a feeling of apprehension, and it seems to be the prevalling opinion that unless these misguided officials can be made to se the error of their ways serious results are likely to follow, and it is not im probable that something besides Beech er's matches will be used to illuminate the pathway of those who sit in high laces. We shall await the next mee ing of the board with no little anxiety strengthened and provision made for the removal of the women and children to a place of safety. Will the selectme rise to the occasion and in a bumble and confrite spirit make the apology asked for, or will they court death an destruction by pursuing an opposite course? This is the question that is low agitating the minds of this terro stricken community. We have fears for the future, but hope for the best.

PLAY IN WEST HAVEN

In Ald of the Housatonle Summer Home-Thursday Evening.

The generous people who are raising funds for the Housatonic Summer Home for Working Girls are displaying commendable energy, and in pursuance of this praiseworthy effort there will be did the wagon course to the railroad produced on Thursday (to-morrow) eve-ning the pretty play "Mrs. Billings" and Harris was hurled out. He was ning the pretty play "Mrs. Billings' Companion" in the West Haven town hall. The play, which is the joint work of Mr. Charles Wylfe and Miss Barney, is very enjoyable and won a fine success when given under the auspices of the Seamen's Friend society in this city recently. The entertainment will undoubt edly be very successful, as much interest prevails over the event.

June 18 .- There's a mania just now putting its grip on all classes and conditions in this part of the Naugatuck Valley. The fellow who doesn't "enthuse" on baseball or drop every home duty or mercantile care and hustle to the new park to witness a game-and a muss over an umpire's decision—hasn't the proper fever. The rage for horse racing was considerable a few years ago, the pulse for this sport was up in the hundreds for quite a period. But the passion died out in time only, however, to be succeeded by the baseball craze. Politics were never in it com-pared with the bat and base runner. Everybody must go to the show and the crowds have delighted the management of this new spot for sport. is no reason why the grand stand can't be packed at every entertainment, provided there is a game interesting and manly. We say manly! We mean no child-play or a row either why one side cant' but wants to win and "bucks" as a ruse-or browbeats an umpire to keep out a poor exhibition of skiel on the diamond. The people are getting to look for a squabble nowadays before the innings are played out and if this kind of a program is to be served again and again baseball will be base. The public just at this time is "taking" to the game fervently. The company that had the "sand" to invest nearly fifty thousand in the Lake Park and other attractions will surely realize a nice return-there's lots of fun and recreation ahead for all, but away with those petty demonstrations of displeasure at the referee's best intentions. league teams do not countenance it nd a few fines for a week or so for loud-mouthed wrangling would put a quietus on this sort of a habit local teams appear to be fostering. We have a Shelton-Derby dispute still unsettled Milford came near saying "quits" last Saturday because of an unpleasant ancouncement from an umpire. Now the query is: Who's to be the next high of this snip-snap. The tickets mean to a peaceable exhibtion of nice work. If the game isn't possible without hostilities pull down the pennants and lose the gates. Two investigations in one day for the medical examiner are not a commo occurrence. Such was yesterday's his ory. In the afternoon Dr. Beardsley was called to report the circumstance attending the death of Maggle Lane found in the Ousatonic river above the Cove. This girl had been missing since Saturday noon, when she left the Allings' mill. She was seen wandering up the river road and in a fit of melan kicker at the unenvied arbiter of base ball differences? Let's have no more cholla over the dim prospect of steady work and sickness at home extin-guished her quiet life by an untimely departure from this field of warfare and fever. In the evening about half-past elever another sudden death called for the medical examiner's minutes. Austin J. Harris of Shelton, a prominent truckman here for fifteen years, who had conducted an immense business in the ine of teaming and freight carting, was driving a span home from Knight's saloon when he suddenly wheeled the horses around by the Naugatuck rall-road depot and drove back. So near picked up by Knight and Lamaureaux and taken to the Mansion house, where the medical examiner made his find ing. Harris was a portly subject and fifty-two years old. The verdict was that Harris died of a fracture at the base of the brain. The hemorrhage from the left ear was very profuse There were no external marks of vio-lence on the body. Harris was quite a favorite here and of a generous disposi-

A week from next Sunday the River side Brotherhood hold an outdoor meet-ing. This organization comprises the patients who were at Dr. Griswold's Sanitarium and who are "liquor or drug It is the purpose of this society In their reunions to strengthen each other in their new resolves and spread abroad the good news of the way they have been and others can be rescued from the bondage of diseased appetite. The exercises are of a religious type and the testimonies given are a modes earnest deep expression of gratitude for their cure. The coming reunion pron ises to be very interesting, music and peeches from friends of the order being a feature of the exercises.

[From Harper's Bazar.]

If in the elaborate scheme of a daughter's education a little time were given to a practical knowledge of household affairs, it would be found of inestimable service all through her life. Possibly the fault of which we complain does not He so much with the servant as it does with the mistress. How can we expect our maids to know more than we know ourselves? They are very much like children, and they soon discover our ignorance, and impose upon us. Try to teach a child anything, and see how ut-terly impossible it is unless you your self know thoroughly the subject you are trying to impart.

Another great trouble with the average young housekeeper is lack of system. Her education is doubtless at fault in this, and she has never learnt business principles. But one's house must be run with method if one wishes ot run it satisfactorily. Inexperienced women make demands which are often quite impossible to be complied with not realizing what work their domestics are doing at the moment, which mus be neglected if their request is regard ed. Given a home, and a husband who provides the wherewithal to keep the home, it obviously becomes the wife's just thought to see that she does not neglect this duty, and that the work is carefully and properly done. This of course involves many petty worries and vexations, and countless irritations and annoyances, but undoubtedly the husband has quite as many cares in his every-day business. A servant's duties should be carefully explained to her and each hour should find its appointe task. If this is neglected the mistress should not overlook the fault. A business man tells his clerk what he expects him to do, and if the clerk does not obey orders he is promptly dis charged, unless some excellent and are much too apt to overlook little faults in our servants rather than scold We do the neglected work ourselves, which teaches no lesson, and is an exceedingly bad method. Ob should be exacted, and respect follows closely after.

Occupation and Facial Expression, A curious paper is contributed to Blackwood's by Dr. Louis Robinson on the influence of trades on faces. It is pretty generally agreed that association with horses gives a person a horsey look; but it appears that circus riders and ring-masters are exempt from the general rule, because with them the horses are regarded as mere "properties," and their minds are occupied solely with the achievement of certain feats to the satisfaction of the public. Dr. Robinson takes as types professional musicians, priests, actors, actresses and blacksmiths, and shows how their pursults induce strongly marked facial expression. Even the style of hair which has become associated with musicians is not altogether dependent on fashion but is evidence of trophic changes resulting from mental habits. The growth and vitality of the hair are profoundly influenced by emotions. Priests cannot change their priestly countenance if they wished. For some Influenced mysterious reason the subcutaneous tissue over the cheek-bones and under the jaws of the cleric's face gets an undue supply of nourishment, which leaves distinctive marks, while the consciousness of a share in the Apostolic legac; gives a muscular set to the lips. Dr Robinson goes on to discuss the other classes mentioned in the same strain and he ends by saying that the aim of the paper is to aid those who are er deavoring to place physiognomy on sound basis. The task is a difficult on because in the course of the article h admits that not only thay the organi part of a man show every sign of guilt when there is no guilt, but only tempta tion; but it may even go further, in at taching a slanderous label to the countenance, owing to the interlocking me tion.-London Daily Telegraph.
